Crumble

Read once. Then it crumbles.

Share a password, key, or private note through an encrypted link that works one time. Once it's opened, the message is gone for good.

01 One-time links
The message self-destructs after reading.

02 Encrypted
Nothing readable sits on the server.

03 No account
Write it, send the link, done.

WHO IT'S FOR
Anyone who needs to send a secret without leaving it in email or chat history.
